

CALIFORNIA STYLE

Michelle Pfeiffer

Keeping Hollywood in the Palm of Her Hand

IT'S EASY BEING GREEN

The Chicest Eco Pieces from Luxe Linens to Gala-Ready Gowns

Timeless Design

INSPIRED HOMES BY THE S.F. BAY, O.C. COAST AND ON A NAPA VALLEY VINEYARD

PLUS

All the Must-Haves Your Kids Will Love

BARRE NONE

Will L.A. Ever Have Its Own Ballet?

APRIL 2012 $5.99

New Balance

Lessons in high-low decor from SoCal interiors maven Kishani Perera

I like to think my greatest talent lies in seeing the potential in art, furniture—even people,” says L.A.-based designer Kishani Perera, who mastered the skill of “junking” as a teenager in Cerritos, salvaging cast-off treasures at local flea markets and yard sales. After graduating from UCLA’s architecture and interior design program, Perera opened her own studio in 2002 and, last year, her first store, Rummage, on Beverly Boulevard in L.A., where she also sells custom-created pieces. This month, Perera looks back on it all, from the elegant to the eccentric, in her new book: Vintage Remix (Abrams, $35). kishaniperera.com.

Perera has designed homes for Gary Oldman, Molly Sims (pictured) and Kate Bosworth.